16 February Ferialia Festival - Edmonton

Symposium: The annual Ferialia Festival (an ancient Roman festival which we use as an excuse to talk Lepidoptera, since it has the same name as a genus of noctuid moth) is scheduled for the 14th of February, with a symposium in the Afternoon (1:30-3:30 pm, Earth Sciences Building 2-36 at the U of Alberta in Edmonton), followed by a potluck dinner at the Acorn house from 5 pm on. The dress theme this year is "something Linnaean, or Swedish." As usual, bring something to eat and drink, as well as any specimens or photos you would like to share (a digital projector will be available). Musicians, bring your axes! Details...
